Retirement of IBM Series/1 in IRS E-Filing

AGENCY: Internal Revenue Service (IRS), Treasury.

ACTION: Notice of retirement of IBM Series/1 in IRS E-filing.

SUMMARY: This announcement serves as notice that the Internal Revenue Service plans to retire the IBM Series/1 for IRS e-filing of Forms 1040 series, including the stand-alone Electronic Tax Document Forms, 4868 and Form 9465. The effective date for this is October 20, 1999 at the conclusion of the 1999 filing season.

Beginning with 1999 Participants Acceptance Testing System (PATs) in November 1999, software developers and transmitters will transmit test returns to the Austin Service Center (AUSC) and/or the Tennessee Computing Center (TCC) on the Electronic Management System (EMS) Front End Processing Subsystem (FEPS).

Transmitters that would have e-filed returns at the Andover (ANSC) or Ogden Service Centers (OSC) will transmit them to AUSC. Transmitters that would have e-filed returns at the Cincinnati Service Center (CSC) and Memphis Service Center (MSC) will transmit them to TCC. The only difference to the filers is the telephone number they use to transmit returns. The returns will still be owned by the home service center for the taxpayer, either ANSC, AUSC, CSC, MSC, or OSC, so software developers, practitioners, and transmitters will still call the home center for assistance and questions for PATs and production. Each service center will have access to the node that contains their data, and will be able to assist e-filers with any question or problem, including transmission problems.

SUPPLEMENTARY INFORMATION: The EMS has been used at TCC since 1996 and AUSC since 1997. The Trading Partner Interface used in transmitting returns will remain the same. IRS is piloting alternative high-speed protocols, such as TCP/IP and use of ISDN, on the new EMS. The State Retrieval System for CSC will move to TCC and the State Retrieval Systems for ANSC and OSC will move to AUSC.

ADDRESSES: Questions or concerns should be directed to Carolyn E. Davis, Senior Program Analyst, IRS, Electronic Tax Administration, OP:ETA:O:S, 5000 Ellin Road, Room C4-187, Lanham, MD 20706.
